

IRC Appoints New Real Estate Global Practice Leader

July 24, 2019

IRC Global Executive Search Partners has leveraged deep expertise of IRC partners and extended its coverage of the main sectors by appointing a new Real Estate Global Practice Leader.

The new Global Practice Leader of the Real Estate practice group is Robert Peck, Partner Managing Director at IRC USA - 20/20 Foresight Executive Search, who is leading the operations of New York, Chicago, Los Angeles and Miami offices. In addition to his primary responsibility of leading his executive search practice, serving the real estate and financial services industries, he leads a variety of strategic initiatives across the firm in the areas of marketing, human capital, technology and strategy.

Robert Peck recognizes the importance of invaluable industry expertise when guiding companies to find top talent who will help them reach new heights in an ever-evolving environment: “As recruitment specialists who have real-world industry experience, we are able to source real estate professionals who we would hire for our own teams. The real estate marketplace is a dynamic, vital landscape that we are shaping with savvy, forward-thinking teams working on a global scale.”

“By any measure, real estate is by far the most significant store of worldwide wealth, representing more than 3.5 times the total global GDP. The leadership provided within the industry is critical and hence it is a key area of focus for our executive search alliance. Robert is an industry leader, and we truly look forward to his leadership of this practice,” says Rohan Carr, President of the IRC Executive Board.
